The Tokyo Hydrogen Museum
is a showcase
for the hydrogen society that Tokyo is aiming to build as an environmentally advanced city.

a facility where visitors can enjoy learning hydrogen, which is actually invisible,
and see the future image of a potential hydrogen society while "viewing, touching and experiencing"
hydrogen.

Watch, touch, and feel hydrogen!

First Floor

The exhibition room is divided into six zones:
 "Energy and Our Life,"
 "Potential of Hydrogen Energy,"
 "Mechanism of Hydrogen Society,"
 "Hydrogen Society at the Present Time,"
 "Hydrogen Society and Our Future," and "What Are Your Hopes for Hydrogen Society?"

Model hydrogen generator

Passing an electric current through water produces hydrogen and oxygen.
 See how hydrogen generates electricity!

Energy flow

Hydrogen has various steps before it is consumed in our lives.
 How is hydrogen produced, stored, transported, and consumed?
 Take a quiz about each of these steps and get the title, "Master of Hydrogen" !

Become a resident of "Neo-Tokyo" !

Take a photo of your face and enjoy "time travel to a future city" !
 Let your avatar have a lot of fun in Neo-Tokyo, a hydrogen society in the future.

Suison balloons

Cute floating balloons of the museum's own design are handed out here!
 Give us a shout if you want to bring one home.

Second Floor

Featuring a lecture room and an open library, the second floor is for hydrogen station operators attending lectures and observation groups visiting the museum from within and outside Japan.

[Open library]

We exhibit the latest technologies and products to promote the spread of hydrogen energy.
